QashqAI Voice - A Public AI Project for Endangered Dialects and Digital Justice

By Siefollah Aslani

I, Siefollah Aslani, a multilingual activist, cultural preservation advocate, and AI accessibility pioneer based in Bremen, Germany.

This project, launched in 2024 and publicly registered in 2025 through GitHub, UNESCO communication, and OpenStreetMap.

- The preservation of endangered dialects (including Qashqai Turkic),
- Voice accessibility for the visually impaired,
- Free educational tools for refugees, migrants, and stateless users,
- Ethical, multilingual, and community-driven AI systems.

All key elements of this project - including its name, logo, mission, and open strategy - were conceptualized, written, and implemented by me.

Any duplication, appropriation, or institutional misuse of this concept without acknowledgment is a violation of ethical principles.

I welcome collaborations, contributions, and recognition from global actors - but I affirm my rightful authorship and ownership.
